

Our Health Guarantee

At Dinork Malamutes, the health and wellbeing of our puppies is a priority from birth through the day they join their new families.

Every puppy receives age appropriate veterinary care before leaving our home, including a veterinary health examination, first vaccinations, deworming, and microchipping. Families also receive their puppy's available health and veterinary records at pickup or before transport.

Two Year Health Guarantee

Our puppies are covered by a two year health guarantee against serious congenital or hereditary conditions that significantly affect the dog's health or quality of life.

If a serious congenital or hereditary condition is diagnosed during the guarantee period, we ask families to contact us promptly and provide documentation from a licensed veterinarian. Additional veterinary evaluation may be requested when necessary to confirm the diagnosis and its cause.

When a condition is confirmed to fall within our health guarantee, we will work directly with the family according to the terms outlined in their Puppy Purchase Agreement.

Your Puppy's First Veterinary Visit

We strongly encourage every family to arrange an examination with their own veterinarian shortly after receiving their puppy. This gives your veterinarian an opportunity to review the puppy's records, establish ongoing care, and discuss vaccinations, nutrition, parasite prevention, growth, and development.

What Our Guarantee Does Not Cover

Our health guarantee is designed to cover serious congenital and hereditary conditions. It does not cover illnesses or conditions resulting from accidents, injuries, improper nutrition, obesity, inappropriate exercise, environmental factors, neglect, exposure to infectious disease after leaving our care, or other acquired causes.

Minor or cosmetic conditions, behavioural concerns, allergies, food sensitivities, reproductive ability, adult size, coat development, colour, and other characteristics that may naturally change as a puppy matures are not covered.

Our Commitment to Our Families

No breeder can guarantee that a dog will never experience a health problem during its lifetime. Genetics are only one part of a dog's long term health. Nutrition, exercise, environment, veterinary care, development, and lifestyle also play important roles.

What we can promise is transparency about our breeding program, appropriate care for our puppies, clear health information at the time of placement, and continued support for our puppy families.

Our goal is not simply to send puppies home. We want our families to feel comfortable contacting us with questions throughout their dog's life.

Full terms and conditions of the Dinork Malamutes Health Guarantee are provided in the Puppy Purchase Agreement signed by each family.
